Carrier Blaze Takes 2 Lives, 29 Injured

SAIGON (UPI) — Two sailors were killed and 29 other persons injured Monday in a raging fire aboard the U.S. aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk off the coast of Viet Nam. The fire started while the big flat top was launching air strikes against North Viet Nam.

A Navy spokesman said the two dead sailors were asphyxiated by thick black smoke that billowed through the living and working quarters below the flight deck.

Twenty-eight other sailors and one civilian were either overcome by smoke or burned in the three-hour fight against the fire. Nine were returned to duty within a short time, but the other 20 were kept in sick bay for treatment or observation.

Sanity Hearing Asked In Killing Of 3 In Lansing

LANSING (UPI) — Attorneys for a 32-year-old father of four, accused of bludgeoning to death his wife and two of his children, were expected to ask a sanity hearing for him.

The accused slayer, Donald Basinger, was arraigned on an open murder charge Monday before Lansing Municipal Judge Earl McDonald. Examination was set for Dec. 14.

Ingham County Prosecutor Donald Reisig said he expected Basinger's attorneys to ask for a sanity hearing for Basinger.

Basinger's wife, Marie, 25, and two of their children, Dennis, 2, and Charmaine, 7, were beaten to death with a ballpeen hammer in their home Saturday night.

The couple's two other children were playing outside the home and were not injured.

Basinger, an Oldsmobile employee here, was being held in the Ingham County Jail.

Order Affects 126 Facilities In 39 States

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It was learned Monday that Kincheloe Air Force Base, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., is on the new Pentagon list of bases to be closed.

Michigan Sens. Pat McNamara and Philip A. Hart, both Democrats, expressed concern when told of the plans to close the Strategic Air Force base by Oct. 1, 1970. The Defense Department is said to have estimated that $14.6 million will be saved annually by closing Kincheloe.

Shift To Osceola

Of the units now stationed at the base the F438 Fighter Interceptor Squadron, equipped with F106 fighters, is to be transferred to Wurtsmith Air Force Base at Osceola, Mich., by July, 1969, replacing an F101 squadron there which will be inactivated.

Sources said the 440th Bombardment Wing and its supporting units will be inactivated by Oct. 1, 1970 with its B52s, its KC135 tankers and the Hound Dog missiles sent to other bases. The 37th Air Defense Missile Squadron located nearby

Hunt Continues In Jungle For Viet Cong Unit

SAIGON (UPI) — American infantrymen and Communist forces skirmished again today in the jungles around the Michelin rubber plantation 40 miles northwest of Saigon.

The brisk firefight broke out as men of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division fanned out through the jungles hunting down a Viet Cong unit they clashed with two days ago in a bitter six-hour battle.

A battalion of Americans suffered moderate casualties in the Sunday fight, but killed 231 Viet Cong by body count. Many more Communist dead were believed dragged away.

A military spokesman said today's fight was brief, but gave no details on casualties on either side.

Meanwhile, Guam-based B52 bombers pounded suspected Viet Cong targets twice today.

One of the targets was an area west of Plei Me in the central highlands near the Cambodian border where troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division killed more than 2,000 North Vietnamese regulars in fierce four-day battle three weeks ago.

The other B52 target today was about 25 miles northwest of the Michelin rubber plantation in the Communist hideout known as "Zone C."

Johnson Holds Defense Budget Huddle Today

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson, weighing commitments of more men and money to Viet Nam, called his defense and state chiefs to the LBJ Ranch today.

Their morning meeting on the banks of the Pedernales River was clouded by the President's standoff dispute with the Federal Reserve Board over its judgment in raising interest rates before he has finalized his defense-heavy 1966 budget.

That fiscal controversy was dramatized in a confrontation Monday between Johnson and William McChesney Martin, chairman of the Reserve Board. Martin, concerned about inflation, said he was not defying the administration but promoting its program in boosting interest rates.

Johnson, conceding Martin's move was a "matter of judgement," said their meeting had been "very helpful, very fruitful."

The President, looking tanned and trim, announced he would confer today with Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and his top White House national security aides, McGeorge Bundy and Robert W. Komer. This preliminary defense budget huddle will be the first in a series of budget meetings at the ranch in the next few days, Johnson explained.

Meeting with reporters on the front lawn of his ranch in his first news conference since Aug. 25, Johnson reiterated that the U.S. will "supply whatever men will be needed" to bring peace to South Viet Nam. But he stressed that so far no decision had been reached on the military buildup in that effort.

The fire started at 9:30 a.m. in the No. 3 machinery room and spread to a generator.

Despite the fire, a Navy spokesman said flight operations were not interrupted and all of the missions against North Viet Nam were launched as scheduled.

Damage control personnel brought the flames under control shortly after 11 a.m. There were several brief flash-back fires, but these were quickly extinguished and the ship secured from general quarters at 12:45 p.m.

The Navy spokesman did not reveal the cause of the fire. A board of inquiry was convened to investigate.

Buckshot Fatal

SAGINAW (UPI) — Robert C. Soper, 19, Bridgeport Township, died Monday in a hospital where he was taken following a hunting accident.

Soper was hunting Sunday on the property of Paul F. Pinet, 39, of Spaulding Township near Saginaw, when Pinet fired a double load of buckshot, believing Soper was a deer.

DeGaulle Faces Dec. 19 Run-Off

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle was returning today to Paris not in triumph but apparently determined to go through with the Dec. 19 runoff election against leftist Francois Mitterrand.

As the 75-year-old general motored to the capital from his estate at Colombey-les-deux-Eglises in Eastern France, top aides hinted strongly De Gaulle would put his first ballot runoff behind him and compete a second time.

De Gaulle spent Monday in seclusion, pondering the vote in which Frenchmen failed to give him the 50 per cent majority required for re-election to another seven-year term.

But it was doubtful De Gaulle would let the 49-year-old Mitterrand, a longtime political foe backed by the strong Communist Party, move into Elysee Palace because of personal pride.

De Gaulle spent 43.97 per cent of the vote in metropolitan France while Mitterrand picked up 32.04 per cent. Jean Lecanuet, 45, the Catholic Center nominee, won 15.78 per cent on an American-style barnstorm campaign and most of the votes were taken from De Gaulle.

Holidays Halt Liquor Sales

LANSING (UPI) — The Michigan Liquor Control Commission has reminded all its licensees that liquor sales will halt for a 58-hour "holiday" over the long Christmas weekend.

There will be no sales of "Christmas cheer" from 9 p.m. Dec. 24 until 7 a.m. Dec. 27.

Under law, establishments selling alcoholic beverages — beer and wine as well as liquor, and packaged liquor as well as liquor by the glass — must stop selling them at 9 p.m. Dec. 24 and refrain from selling them on Christmas day, Dec. 25.

This year, Dec. 26 falls on a Sunday. A 1952 act extended Christmas closing hours under that circumstance throughout Sunday and until 7 a.m. Dec. 27.

Clinton County Auto Collision Takes 3 Lives

GRAND LEDGE (UPI) — Two 19-year-old Portland, Mich., girls and a Troy man were killed Monday when their cars collided at an intersection in Eagle Township, Clinton County.

Police said Arian's Department Store was entered late Saturday through a rear window. Vandalism broke into a gun display loaded rifles and began shooting up appliances, including several television sets. They also shot a $149 parrot as it sat in its cage.

Before the vandals left they tied a spider monkey in front of a broken pane of glass in freezing temperatures. The monkey was not expected to live. His keepers said Monday he was in bad condition, suffering from exposure.

The youths were released under $5,000 bond each.

Two Boys Deny $20,000 Spree

WARREN (UPI) — Two 17-year-old boys arrested in connection with a $20,000 vandalism spree through a suburban department store late Saturday pleaded innocent in a court appearance Monday.

The two were transferred to Macomb County Jail to await arraignment in Warren Municipal Court.

Boaster Jailed

OAKLAND, Cal. (UPI) — "I just knocked off a joint," confided Donald Cordova to his neighbor in a bar.

Off-duty policeman Theodore Arroyo listened attentively, then walked to a phone and called for help.

Cordova was arrested a few minutes later and charged with the robbery of a nearby tavern.

Gemini 6 Sunday Launching Sighted

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The Gemini 6 rocket launch chief predicted today that barring last-minute hitches astronauts Walter Schirra and Thomas Stafford would be launched Sunday to attempt a space rendezvous with Gemini 7.

"I think if I were to bet now, I'd bet on Sunday," said Lt. Col. John G. Albert, head of the Gemini launch division for the Air Force.

The shot, second half of a Gemini spectacular, remained officially scheduled for Monday, but Albert said preparations on the Titan 2 rocket were a day ahead. Work on the Gemini 6 spacecraft was about 20 hours ahead.

"I think we're at the point now where we can make it Sunday," Albert told UPI in an interview. "I don't see any restraint at all."

"Things just couldn't be better. I never could have imagined that we could be this far ahead," he said.

Albert emphasized that if any problems develop in final preparations "all bets are off." He said "we are working toward a Sunday launch, but are not committed to it."

Mission Director William Schneider said Monday in Houston that the decision had already been made to go Sunday — "if everything is ready."

The big hurdle that must be passed to keep Gemini 6 launch preparations moving at a record-breaking pace is a 12-hour flight rehearsal scheduled to begin at midnight. It had been set to start at 2 a.m. EST Thursday.

Most Western observers said the Tass report suggested a crash landing.

(Radio astronomers at Jodrell Bank, England, said signals from Luna 8 stopped abruptly just one minute and 32 seconds after the scheduled touchdown. "It probably destroyed itself," said Sir Bernard Lovell, director of the Jodrell Bank Observatory. "But I must emphasize that we cannot be absolutely certain.")

The failure of Luna 8 deprived the Russians of a chance to upstage America's Gemini 7 flight. Luna 8 was launched last Friday.

The United States does not plan a soft landing until early next year.

Russian Moon Landing Fails

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet space scientists failed today in their fourth attempt to put a working package of instruments on the surface of the moon.

The spacecraft Luna 8 hit the moon, but all indications were that it was destroyed on impact instead of making a soft landing.

"The systems of the station were functioning normally at all stages of the landing except the final touchdown," the official Tass news agency reported.

Most Western observers said the Tass report suggested a crash landing.

(Radio astronomers at Jodrell Bank, England, said signals from Luna 8 stopped abruptly just one minute and 32 seconds after the scheduled touchdown. "It probably destroyed itself," said Sir Bernard Lovell, director of the Jodrell Bank Observatory. "But I must emphasize that we cannot be absolutely certain.")

Gun Accidents Take 15 Lives In Deer Season

EAST LANSING (UPI) — State Police said today their figures showed that 15 hunters were killed by accidental shooting during the Michigan deer hunting season which ended Sunday.

Ten other persons died of heart attacks while on hunting trips, and there were 34 gunshot injuries reported.

The hunting season began in the Upper Peninsula Nov. 13, and in the Lower Peninsula a week later.

Astronauts In Fourth Day, Stage Space Experiments

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — A casually dressed pair of Gemini 7 astronauts sped into the fourth of a scheduled 14 days in orbit today, with word coming up on whether their breakthrough rendezvous with Gemini 6 can be staged a day early.

One-fifth of the way through their 5-million-mile, 206-orbit journey, Navy Capt. James Lovell slept in his underwear and command pilot had his 16-pound flight suit unzipped as a relief against warmth the two have been experiencing throughout the flight.

Gemini 7 entered its 42nd orbit at 8 a.m. (EST), in a path ranging from 138 to 199 miles away from earth.

Some time today, Lovell was to get suited up again and Borman take a try at "underwear flying." Officials have ordered that one of the pilots remain in his suit at all times, since a loss of pressure in the cabin could be fatal to a pilot not protected by the pressurized flight suit.

Space Agency officials were making a final decision today on whether Gemini 6 pilots Walter Schirra and Thomas Stafford might be able to streak off from Cape Kennedy in pursuit of Gemini 6 on Sunday, instead of Monday as originally scheduled.

Meanwhile Borman and Lovell were set to try once again to pull off the laser experiment, in which Lovell tries to send his voice to a ground station via a beam of concentrated light. So far, clouds or other adverse conditions have blocked the craft from the view of two of the ground stations and a small equipment fire at the third, Ascension Island, ruined chances for a test there.

And they were continuing the long list of other experiments designed — among other things — to feed vital information to the Apollo man-on-the-moon project.

Winding up a long Monday, the astronauts got some exercise, ate, and threw all the "automatic" switches so their 7,500-pound spacecraft could fly itself.

Also on Monday, the pilots saw a Polaris missile fired down the Atlantic Range from the submarine Benjamin Franklin, submerged off Cape Kennedy.

"She's beautiful," came the report from the capsule. "... easy to track — we're right on it."

Clevenger Asks Closing Inquiry

Congressman Raymond F. Clevenger (D-Sault Ste. Marie), in Escanaba today for an UPCA meeting, said he is demanding a full review of the Department of Defense decision to close Kincheloe Air Force Base near Sault Ste. Marie by 1970.

"I am shocked and deeply saddened to hear the proposal to close the base," said Clevenger.

"The loss of Kincheloe's 2,300 civilian and military jobs will be another blow to the Upper Peninsula."

"If our inquiry into Secretary of Defense McNamara's decision shows us Kincheloe is no longer a necessary part of our defense establishment, I will request that the government initiate domestic programs to offset the loss of jobs," Clevenger said. "I feel confident that if this is the road we must take we can keep these people working and the Sault area economy growing by utilizing the new Public Works and Economic Development Acts and other federal, state and private programs."

will be maintained with additional facilities to make it self sustaining.

Big Economic Loss

The closing of the Kincheloe base will, according to these reports, result in reassignment of 2,223 military personnel and elimination of 253 civilian jobs.

Hart and McNamara, in their statement, said they were concerned "about the economic impact of the closing" of so large a base in the vicinity of a community such as Sault Ste. Marie. They said the federal government, in the five years before the closing is completed, "will take every possible step" to offset the economic loss.

Selfridge Air Force Base at Mount Clemens was also reported scheduled for reduced activity.

The 71st Fighter-Interceptor Squadron was to be transferred to Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base in Missouri and the 927th Troop Carrier Group was to be deactivated. Those units were to be replaced at Selfridge by transfer of the 127th Tactical Reconnaissance Wing and the HINDMAN, Ky. (UP) — A rugged mountainside where a private plane crashed Monday killing all six persons aboard was sealed off today awaiting the arrival of Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) officials.

FAA representatives were to arrive at Lexington, Ky., this morning and travel to the crash site 20 miles southeast of here to begin an investigation of the twisted wreckage of the two-engine Aero Commander plane.

All six persons aboard were from New York state. Their bodies were recovered late Monday night and moved to the Hindman Funeral Home.

They were identified as the pilot, Earl F. Rumsey, 33, Liverpool; co-pilot Anthony Rusyniak Jr., 33, Brewerton, and passengers Phil B. Stump, 47, Marlis; Donald H. Firestone, 40; George R. Malone, and Robert Bielman, 42, all of Ithaca.

Malone was an associate of Central Airways, Inc., of Syracuse, N.Y., which owned the craft.

Van Duzee's talk was the first of several planned to assist the Junior Achievers to improve their sales techniques. Three points were stressed by Van Duzee in the formula of successful selling: Preparation, presentation, and enthusiasm. Every sale is the result of an idea, he added.

He also discussed methods of marketing a product and described solutions to the various problems encountered in selling.

The Fox and the Stork

One day a Fox invited a Stork to dine, but when she arrived she found the delicious dinner of soup served on such a shallow plate that she could barely wet the tip of her bill. So, a few days later, in return, she entertained the Fox at dinner, serving some finely-minced meat which she had put in the bottom of a jar with a very long neck. She could thrust her bill into this, but the Fox could get nothing but the drippings.

Mead Offering Essay Awards

Delta County high school students will have the opportunity to compete for a $1,000 college scholarship and several cash awards in a Mead Corp. sponsored Science Essay Contest, George S. Douglas, Mead's Escanaba Division manager announced today.

Essays in chemistry, biology and physics will be accepted for the competition up to Feb. 1, 1966. High school sophomores, juniors and seniors in all of Delta County are eligible, according to Douglas. Research papers and descriptions of the student science projects, including techniques employed, results, etc., will be accepted.

"Our primary purpose in sponsoring this project is to develop greater interest in the career opportunities science offers," Douglas stated.

First, second and third awards of $25, $15 and $10 will be made in each of the three major categories. Science teachers who serve as advisors to the first-place winner will also receive a $25 award.

Each first-prize winning essay will be entered in competition with those from students in 12 other Mead communities. The best essays in each category — chemistry, biology and physics — will receive a $100 cash award.

The best overall science essay will be selected from among the three corporate-wide winners, and its author will receive the $1,000 scholarship.

Local prize winners are expected to be announced in March 1966, Douglas said. Local high schools have been supplied with rules covering the competition, and Douglas said additional copies of the rules are available through the office of Robert E. Barron at the Mead Corp.

Top winners in the national Mead competition will be announced in May, 1966.

Building Success:

Motivate Youth To Learn, Grow

When you seek to assist in the upward motivation of another person, place yourself where he is for better understanding of the problem that confronts him.

Laurence Taylor, leadership development consultant, told Escanaba Kiwanis and Rotary Club members at Marco's on Monday.

"Complexities of Motivation" was discussed by Taylor, whose appearance in the Upper Peninsula is sponsored by the U. P. District YMCA. He talked to Gladstone High School students in the morning, the service clubs at noon, and to the Escanaba Area High School in the afternoon.

Taylor was presented by Don Vreeland of Iron Mountain, YMCA field representative in the U. P., and the program was introduced by Luther Barrett of the Kiwanis Club. John O'Brien, Kiwanis Club president, conducted the meeting.

Formerly a vice president of Hillsdale College, Taylor is now a conference technician serving business and industry, religious and educational institutions.

An Internal Thing

Taylor declared that it is impossible "to coerce people into doing anything" they do not want to do, but it is possible to motivate them toward attainments and goals to the limit of their abilities.

All of us are motivated for good or ill, he continued. For

Short Of Frogs

LONDON (UP) — A lack of native English frogs needed by school biology teachers has opened up a new market for the importation of frogs from France.

That is what old age does to people."

No One Perfect

Taylor gave some tips on how parents and others can work with young people in motivating them toward success.

Fathers, for example, should identify their own mistakes and not attempt to build an image of paternal infallibility. Make it clear to the young person that no one is perfect. And have kindness and mercy for the learner in trouble.

Belaboring a person because he has made a mistake should be avoided. The development of a "pattern of success" will assist the learner in building confidence—and success.

"Help a child or a young person develop a positive image of attainment, so that he can stand on his own two feet," he advised.

"It is the job of us all to build a climate of helpfulness and confidence in which people can grow and develop. Toward youth we must show trust, have patience toward imperfections, and provide the motivation for growth through encouragement," Taylor said.

Four Brothers Marry Sisters

UNION CITY, N.J. (UP) — Since 1958, four of the six Vanacore sisters have married four of the six De Palma brothers.

The latest wedding was Sunday between the youngest of each family — Marie and Anthony.

Of the eight children in the four marriages, three have been named Concetta after the De Palma mother, two Charles after the De Palma father, and two Ester after the Vanacore mother.

About Federal Money

UPCAP met here today to wrestle with a problem that is a common one today in America. UPCAP's problem is defining the role of local government.

UPCAP is the Upper Peninsula Committee for Area Progress. It was organized four years ago by the boards of supervisors of 14 of the 15 U. P. counties to promote economic development.

It limped along, doing a surprising amount of effective work in economic planning on meagre resources and able, volunteer leadership, for several years and then it made a tap on the federal government's money pipeline. The Area Redevelopment Administration gave Robert Nathan Associates $127,000 to give UPCAP some technical assistance.

There was more money later and then UPCAP was getting federal grants itself for giving technical assistance to the Office of Economic Opportunity and other federal agencies with projects in the U. P.

UPCAP wasn't asked to pass on the worth of the projects, but only to implement them. Finally, as it became busier and busier with federal work, it had to make a decision whether it would put its own projects first or those of the federal government. The decision wasn't a very difficult one because UPCAP had to live and it was mostly on federal grants.

And the county supervisors who controlled its destinies could rationalize that the federal Economic Opportunity Act program had the same goals as their own U. P. economic development program.

But the supervisors who founded UPCAP are concerned about its future and its relationship with Big Government. The U. P. Association of Supervisors meeting in Manistowic in the weekend urged all county boards to support UPCAP to assure its continuance after federal programs expire.

Federal programs will never expire. There will always be more of them. The need that confronts UPCAP also confronts the townships, the municipalities, the counties, the school districts, the community colleges, the colleges and universities and all other units of government. The need is for a policy on relationship with the federal government. States need it as well as local governments. Even the churches need it.

The growing takeover by federal government results more from a surrender of local responsibility than it does from a Washington plot.

It's easy to get money from Washington and it's hard to get it from the folks back home. The supervisors in UPCAP know about this. They know about the efforts of our U. P. county boards of supervisors to economize and the impossibility of getting from the counties the money necessary to meet UPCAP's office budget at present.

Formulation of the policy of relationship starts with legislation affecting the area of interest — area development, subsidies for sewerage, paying needy kids to go to school, making government loans to small business, job corps for youths, etc. If the legislation is believed bad it should be opposed with tooth and nail.

But once enacted it is the law of the land for a year or two, subject to renewal by new appropriations if it can prove public benefits. Then the local government (school, county, etc.) makes the second decision, whether to participate in the benefit program. It may fear that participation will help perpetuate a poorly conceived program and elect to stay out.

Or it may say: We're paying for it anyway; we might as well get ours.

The decisive test of each federal program is its local application. Why should a school district take federal money for a project which it believes is not worth the cost, simply because it is not paying the cost itself, directly? This sort of thing nourishes predatory politics and yet there can be no question that it is rather widespread — increasing the tax burden, fostering political bickering and hurrying the transfer of school control from home town to Washington.

On the other hand there is an equalizing process which goes hand-in-hand with this socializing process. It transfers to a broader tax base the payment for public services which are desirable but considered beyond the means of local districts.

Essentially, local government should exercise some civic courage along with its judgment; turning down a federal handout for any project which it regards as not worth the money, if it had to raise it itself.

"May I Make a Suggestion?"

Tied To Business

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Whether or not Mayor-elect John Lindsay can succeed at his incredibly difficult new job may depend in part on how much help he can get from the city's top businessmen.

Much stress is being laid these days on probable troubles he faces in dealing with city Democrats in lesser but still fairly powerful offices, with the Johnson administration at the national level, and with Republican Gov. Nelson Rockefeller in Albany.

Very likely these will all turn out to be real enough. Yet even if these "difficulties of cooperation" should somehow be held to a minimum (and federal monies should flow freely), there is some belief that New York needs more to get over the hump.

A Trade Association executive with long experience in New York believes the city's problems will never be surmounted convincingly until business leaders pay attention to their city.

In his view, those leaders who do exhibit public spirit throw virtually all their energies into helping to finance and otherwise guide the national fortunes of the Republican party.

From the party's standpoint this kind of leadership assistance is obviously traditional. From New York's viewpoint, chronic might be a better word.

Even before they touch the political arena, the city's business chieftains are accustomed to operating on the national scale. They stand high in many of the country's biggest corporations. It is perhaps natural that they usually have "bought in the same terms politically."

They have been in New York, but not of it. In a very real sense, their relationship to the city has not been unlike that of the diplomat in a foreign capital, enjoying "homestead immunity."

The anonymous trade association official argues that the conglomeration of talent is so great in these New York based corporations that even if only a fair proportion of it can be enlisted, it will make a major contribution.

dent on the city's problems and —best of all—help supply it with the kind of cohesive spirit it has seldom had.

What the argument actually boils down to is that no major American city—and particularly New York—is going to make any consistent headway against any sizable part of its smothering load of problems unless it has an interested power structure.

Pittsburgh's gains in modernizing and cleaning itself up are generally credited to an aroused business leadership. Though Philadelphia has surely not solved its local employment problems, its top business executives have applied themselves with unique diligence and imagination to this hard task.

San Francisco, Dallas and Atlanta are other cities where the business leadership is a progressive force more or less constantly felt.

Atlanta, small beside New York, is nevertheless an instructive model of a city literally governed by its power structure. More than a score of executives there are continuously dedicated to seeing that Atlanta moves.

Those leaders simply will do anything within their power to prevent developments which threaten the city's progress in the smallest way. Much of Atlanta's relative harmony on the racial front is ascribable to their efforts.

To ask New York's sophisticated overlords to plunge into similar endeavors in behalf of their neglected city is clearly asking a very great deal.

Not only John Lindsay's future but the whole shaky cause of the Republican party in the troubled big cities could hinge on whether or not they choose to give it a very earnest try.

Course Charted For Catholics

VATICAN CITY (UPI) —The Ecumenical Council held its final working meeting Monday and approved a 26,000-word decree charting the course of the Catholic Church in the space age.

It was the last of 16 decrees to be approved during the historic 4 year session.

The document, first ever directed by a council to contemporary social problems, outlines the church's stance on birth control, nuclear warfare and a host of other issues ranging from labor strikes to scientific progress.

In a previous ballot on the controversial nuclear weapon question, 483 prelates voted against a statement condemning modern warfare, nuclear stockpiling and the armaments race.

Cardinals Francis Spellman of New York and Lawrence Joseph Shehan of Baltimore had headed a lobby to reject the section. Some U.S. prelates felt the section was critical of American policy.

A smaller total voted against the overall decree and Americans were reported to be changing their position which had caused considerable confusion among other national hierarchies.

This meant that on the formal vote in Tuesday's ceremony the number of negative votes was likely to diminish even further.

The decree will be one of four promulgated by Pope Paul VI at a public session of the council Tuesday. The pontiff closes the council with solemn state ceremonies on Wednesday.

Ann Landers

Service People Kicked Around

Dear Ann Landers: Why don't service men and women get treated better by airlines? They risk their lives for our country and should be treated like privileged characters. Instead they get kicked around.

Our nephew who is in the Navy came home for a few days. He couldn't make reservations because he was traveling on the military discount. They kept him on standby for 12 hours and he arrived home exhausted.

Service men and women are the last to board the plane. They can get on only if seats are left over. Furthermore, they can be put off at any stop if a commercial passenger wants to get on. I've seen boys in uniform near tears when they were ordered off a plane halfway home. These poor kids must then wait for a plane with empty seats. Is this fair?

—DISGUSTED AUNT

Dear Aunt: The military discount is an arrangement between the airlines and the government, designed to accommodate the maximum number of service people at the most economical rates.

Service men and women who travel at a substantial saving are told in advance that they might get bumped. If they don't want to risk it, they should pay the commercial rate and be assured of a seat.

Dear Ann Landers: My mother died five months ago. Her last wish was that I take my 23-year-old brother into my home.

My husband never got along with Kirk but it was he who said, "Yes, Mother, we will take Kirk. Don't worry."

Kirk agreed to pay us $17 a week for room and board and laundry. (He makes $88 a week.) He stopped paying after the first two months and we haven't seen a dime since.

Two months ago he took our car without permission. He wrecked it and now we are without a car.

Our two sons are afraid of Kirk. He's awfully mean to them. He wears his husband's clothes and has burned holes in our furniture because of his careless smoking habits.

I could write a book, but what's the use? My husband nearly nine times the amount has been a saint but he's ready to sue in 1940, according to the here. My mother's memory. Insurance Information Institute.

The Doctor Says:

Shun Sclerosis Factors

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt

Q — An electrocardiogram showed that I have coronary sclerosis. What causes this? Is there any way to arrest it?

A — Coronary sclerosis, like hardening of any other artery, is caused by insoluble deposits of cholesterol and triglycerides in the arterial wall. Both of these substances are normal and necessary constituents of the blood, but a diet high in sugar, starch and certain fats will increase the concentration of these substances to a dangerous level. Lack of sufficient exercise and smoking are also causative factors. Avoid these factors and you will decrease your chances of a serious heart attack.

Q — I recently had an acute myocardial infarction. What are the chances of having another one? What should my physical capabilities be after recovery from this one?

A — After myocardial infarction, commonly called a heart attack, the chances of having another depend on many factors. Many a moderately severe attack has acted as a warning signal for the victim to slow down. He makes a good recovery and then, under careful guidance by a physician who knows him well, he can enjoy many years of productive life.

Q — The doctor says my sister, 48, has a tired heart. Is this serious?

A — This is an unfortunate phrase because it is vague and causes the victim to worry more than if she were given an out-and-out diagnosis of heart disease, which your sister may or may not have. If I were to say that a person had a tired heart I would expect a good night's sleep to cure it, but I suspect that this is not always what is meant when this term is used.

Why not ask the doctor what kind of heart ailment your sister has and how serious it is?

Q — What is posterior coronary insufficiency with hypoxia? Is it serious?

A — This is a blocking of the flow of blood through the coronary artery at the back of the heart. When this happens there is an acute shortage of oxygen-carrying blood in the back of the heart. All heart attacks are serious, but few first attacks are fatal.

Q — Is there any chance that a woman who has not menstruated for 3 years could become pregnant?

A — No.

Q — I feel chilly most of the time. What could cause this and what should I do?

A — This may be caused by a thyroid deficiency or anemia but neurocirculatory asthenia is the commonest cause. This is a condition seen in tense worrisome people, especially those who live in constant fear of heart disease. The treatment would depend on the cause.

MSU And U-M Change Minds On UPCAP Vote

UPCAP's delegate body was to convene at the State Office Building today with some surprise business on the agenda.

On hand were letters from the Extension services of both Michigan State University and the University of Michigan saying that they did not want to be voting members of UPCAP.

When UPCAP last met on Nov. 22 it was to hear an ultimatum that it must admit to voting membership 12 delegates representing federal War on Poverty agencies with which it would be dealing and 4 delegates representing the universities serving the U. P., or it would get no more federal grants for technical services in the economic opportunity program.

There was no advance notice from Northern Michigan University nor Michigan Tech about their new role in UPCAP (Upper Peninsula Committee for Area Progress) like those from MSU and U-M.

Director Resigns

UPCAP was meeting today to start the process of replacing its executive director, Dr. E. V. Bowden, who resigned effective Jan. 1 after UPCAP enlarged its membership by adding the 4 university and 12 poverty agency seats to the 14 for the U. P. county boards of supervisors which created the economic development agency 4 years ago. Also to be replaced is Robert Ray of Ironwood, secretary, who also resigned.

Dr. A. S. Mowery, Marquette, director of MSU Extension in the U. P., wrote that "MSU would appreciate the opportunity of attending official UPCAP meetings to provide counsel, to exchange ideas, and to assure that its educational resources are continually made available to the organization" but would prefer not to appoint a voting delegate to UPCAP.

"We were privileged to play a major role in the creation of UPCAP," wrote Mowery "and our experience would indicate that our assistance was more effective due to the fact that we were serving in a counseling and consulting capacity."

U-M Regrets Too

"Educational institutions, including ours, have been concerned about closer liaison with UPCAP, to assure that the regional planning development body makes most efficient use of existing educational resources. But we feel that communications can be improved through an operating program whereby we can be assured not only the privilege of receiving reports, but also participating in UPCAP as a non-voting representative."

In a similar stand, Charles L. Folio, director of U-M Extension in the U. P., wrote: "The honor of being invited to become a policy-making member of such a strong Upper Peninsula agency as UPCAP is most appreciated. Such an invitation would have to be declined, however, because it is not consistent with university policy to appoint voting representatives to quasi-public agencies."

"The Extension Service would be very glad to have

Consider Review Of City Charter

Review of Escanaba's city charter, rather than revision, is being considered by the City Council after the advantages of review were presented to the Council at its meeting in the City Hall Monday night.

Mrs. Elnora Vader, teacher of government in the Escanaba Area High School, at the invitation of Mayor George Rusch spoke to the Council briefly on the subject of charter revision.

The Escanaba City Charter is used by the government classes as a text and she said she believes that "basically it is a good document," although there are some areas in which it could be brought up to date. She suggested the possibility of reviewing the city charter periodically. A charter review committee, which would be appointed by the Council, could study the charter and make suggestions for specific amendments. These amendments would then be considered by the Council and if approved be adopted in the usual manner.

Welcome Suggestion

Mrs. Vader asked if the present charter is "cramping the operations" of the city and was told by Mayor George Rusch that while there is "nothing specific at the moment" the Council has experienced charter problems through the years.

Mayor Rusch and Councilman Harold Vanlergerghe agreed that charter review rather than charter revision "is a good thought" and the suggestion "a very good one." The Council, if it proceeds with charter review, will name a committee of perhaps five persons who will be responsible for reviewing the charter and offering proposed amendments.

The alternative charter revision, requires under law a referendum in which a charter revision commission is elected; a complete revision study is made; and a revised charter presented to the people for approval in a second election. The last time this was done, several years ago, the proposed revised charter was rejected by the people.

The City Council in other business:

Approved the low bid of the International Paper Co. to supply the city with utility poles for $2,192.50. The bid was the lowest of 13 received.

Discussed a report by City Manager George Harvey on the Recreation Board in which its functions were evaluated. A reduction in the number of Board members to seven, inclusion of representation of senior citizens, and further consideration of the community-school concept of recreational programming were mentioned.

Considered policy on bid deposits and agreed that deposits should be required on all bids, including those for coal.

Heard Councilman H. George Nelson request City Attorney John G. Erickson for a written opinion on whether a man is his wife's legal guardian.

K. J. Moilanen Retires Dec. 31

Ontonagon County Extension Natural Resource Agent K. J. Moilanen of Ewen announced plans for retiring December 31, at a meeting of the Ontonagon County Board of Supervisors. The long-time Michigan State University representative was reared on a farm in Keweenaw Bay (Baraga County) and graduated from Michigan State University in 1933, majoring in horticulture.

In 1935 he became a district 4-H club agent for Houghton, Keweenaw, Baraga and Ontonagon Counties where he served until being appointed Ontonagon County's agricultural agent in 1938.

Moilanen entered the military service in 1942, serving on the staff and faculty of the Ordnance Unit Training Center at Camp Perry, Ohio. He was made Commander of an Ordnance Base Depot Company later and went with this company to Honolulu, Hawaii. He then joined the Army Garrison Force on Ie Shima as Island Ordnance Supply Officer in March, 1945, and was soon promoted to the rank of major.

Returning to the states late in 1945, Moilanen again assumed his position as Ontonagon County agent in January of 1946. He received a Masters degree in Extension from Michigan State University in 1955.

While serving as agent in Ontonagon County, Moilanen helped to organize the Ewen Farmers Produce Co., two artificial breeding associations, a county cooperative livestock marketing association, the western Upper Michigan Beef Breeders Assn. and the Soil Conservation District. He promoted the first feeder calf sale in the Upper Peninsula in 1956. The sale handled 254 cattle that year and has grown to the point where 1,287 were sold this year.

Moilanen is presently serving on the board of Social Ministry of the Wisconsin-Upper Michigan Synod of the Lutheran Church in America, and on the board of directors of Trinity Lutheran Hospital at Ashland, Wis.

Having served as a member of the National Assn. of County Agricultural Agents Youth Committee for two years, Moilanen received the NACAA Distinguished Service Award in 1962. He and Mrs. Moilanen have five children and six grandchildren.

Rinehart Will Vote In UPCAP For 3 Counties

Richard Rinehart, president of Bay De Noc Community College, Escanaba, was elected as the Menominee - Delta-Schoolcraft Community Action Agency delegate to the newly restructured UPCAP Committee at a meeting of the Tri-County Agency held Saturday in the State Office Building. The meeting drew members from all three of the counties.

Fred Hahne, Manitowish, chairman of the committee, discounted rumors that the future of UPCAP was imperiled as a result of the reorganization. "If anything," stated Hahne, "the new UPCAP should be stronger. Representation on its body of Community Action Agency delegates provides more grass roots experience because CAA is dealing directly with the people."

"Moreover, while four distinct groups will be represented on UPCAP, all of them are dedicated to a single purpose and it is just not conceivable that any one group would abandon this unity of purpose for purely selfish motives."

Nurses Aides Needed

CAA Director Ray LaPorte reported to the committee that a survey of hospitals and nursing homes in the tri-county area had been completed, demonstrating a need for trained nursing aides, orderlies, ward clerks and housekeeping personnel and that the results had been submitted to the local MESC office for possible action under a Manpower Development Training Act program.

Consideration of a personnel policy for employees of the agency was referred to the CAA executive committee for study and action. LaPorte was authorized to start a program in the five area center offices to register recipients of Social Security pensions who might be interested in supplemental employment. Area center representatives will attend a training school at Northern Michigan University this week in Marquette. It is expected that one of their first programs will be the registration of retirees when they open their offices after the training period.

Curtailment of funds leading to more rigid requirements for Hannahville to determine what

Richard Rinehart

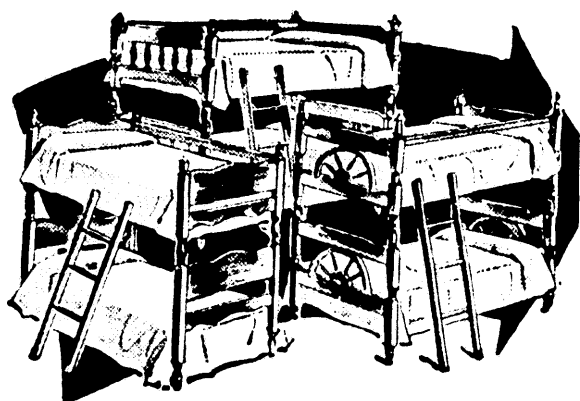

Small Business Development Center loans was discussed. Since all loans, in the future, will require the approval of the local Community Action Agency, LaPorte was authorized to consult with two of the executive board members.

Aid To Indians

LaPorte said that progress was being made by the Bureau of Indian Affairs for a housing project for the Hannahville Indians near Wilson. The committee authorized LaPorte to meet with the tribal council at CAA projects could be explored to assist members of the tribe. Superintendent Richard Hahne of the Bark River schools, said that the school's facilities were available.

The delegate body of the Menominee - Delta - Schoolcraft Community Action Agency has been established at 42 members and of this group, 25 per cent must be resident participants or persons in the low-income group. Stressing that this was a legal requirement, Hahne urged the members to appoint alternates to represent them, in the event they were unable to attend meetings. "Failure to maintain the membership as established could result in the Office of Economic Opportunity refusing to renew the grant," said Hahne.

gas line freeze

(before it stops you cold!)

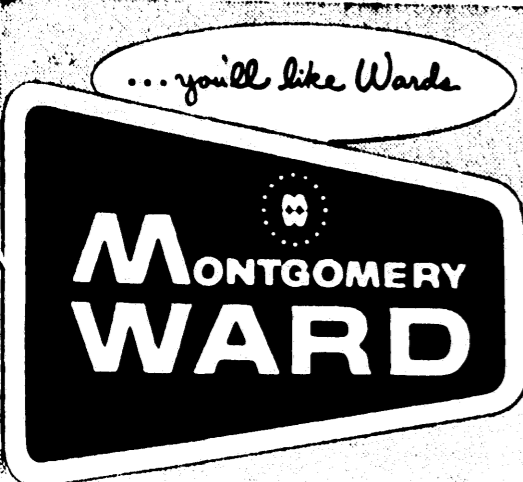

"My advice, sir - get De-Icer!"

Here we go again. Wintertime driving is here and with it, those built-in problems that make life miserable. Like a frozen gas line. When moisture collects in your gas line, then freezes, the supply of fuel to the engine is choked off. You're stopped cold. But you can avoid the tow truck trip—just use American, Regular or American, Super-Premium Gasoline. Each contains the real thing—DE-ICER—to prevent gas line freeze down to 40° below. At Standard Oil Dealers, "It's like summertime driving all Winter long!" You expect more from Standard and you get it!

Vatican Council Charts Path For Church Changes

EDITORS NOTE: The Vatican Ecumenical Council, which began on Oct. 11, 1962, will come to a close Wednesday, Dec. 8. In the following dispatch, UPI Religion Editor Louis Cassels analyzes the achievements of this historic meeting and its impact on the world of religion.

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Editor

The Vatican Ecumenical Council was the most significant religious event of this century.

It laid the groundwork for changes in the Roman Catholic Church as far-reaching as any sought by Martin Luther at the time of the Protestant Reformation.

As a result of this historic four-year summit conference of bishops from every nation, the world's largest religious body will:

- Conduct its worship services in new ways.
- Decentralize its form of government.
- Radically revise its attitude toward other religions.
- Give greater prominence to the bible as a sourcebook of doctrine.

Accord new dignity and importance to the laity.

—Overhaul its seminaries to insure better selection and preparation of priests.

—Put nuns into modern dress.

Vast Scope

That's not all the Council did, but it's enough to indicate the breathtaking scope of its achievements.

Not all the changes it wrought will be visible immediately to the church's 500 million members. It will take many years, in some cases, to implement the broad changes of reform which were laid down by the Council fathers.

But the die has now been cast, and the life of the Catholic Church for centuries to come will be shaped by the decisions made in St. Peter's Basilica since the late Pope John XXIII called the Council to order on Oct. 11, 1962.

Some Catholic traditions, who preferred the old ways, are appalled by the whole business. Their viewpoint was vigorously represented in the Council by a small but determined minority of conservative bishops who made up in parliamentary skill what they lacked in voting power.

Some Dubious

Their maneuvers succeeded on many occasions in postponing action on important documents. This led to premature gloom-mongering by disappointed liberals and, particularly at the close of the 1964 session, gave rise to a widespread public impression that the Council was foundering on the rocks of conservative intransigence.

Nothing could be further from the truth. The key fact about the Council, from the day it opened until the day it closed, was the overwhelming size of the majority committed to Pope John's program of renewal and reform. On the crucial votes, the majority for "aggiornamento" (an Italian word meaning "updating") was usually in the neighborhood of 80 to 90 per cent.

So this revolution in what was for centuries a staid and change-resistant institution cannot be regarded as a coup engineered by a few hot-eyed reformers. It represents the considered judgment and enthusiastic will of most of the 2,300 bishops who patiently endured endless weeks of Latin debate in order to cope with a cruelly long agenda.

The first fruit of their labor was a sweeping reform in Catholic liturgical practices.

The Council fathers decreed that public worship was henceforth to be conducted in the language of the people instead of Latin so members of the congregation could be active participants rather than silent spectators. Provisions were made for revising the order of the mass, purifying it of medieval accretions and redundancies, and placing more emphasis on sermons, scripture reading and hymn singing, in order to make the whole service more meaningful to the laity.

Shifts in Power

Next, the Council turned its attention to the task of re-defining the power structure of the church, and correcting the one-sided emphasis on papal supremacy which resulted from the uncompleted work of the Vatican Council of 1870.

The corrective which the Council adopted was the "Doctrine of Collegiality," which asserts that all bishops, by God-given right rather than by papal suzerainty, share with the Pope in the responsibility for governing the whole church. The Council's document was at pains to reaffirm the Pope's supremacy and to make clear that the authority of the bishops was to be exercised only in conjunction with and never apart from the Pope. But the door was opened to future decentralization of power.

A related decree provided for creation of a new "Synod of Bishops" or Episcopal Senate, which will include representatives of all national hierarchies and will be rather like a little Ecumenical Council. This body will meet in Rome at the call of the Pope to advise and consult with him on major policy decisions. The Pope has already announced that the first session will be held in 1967.

Curia Reform

The Council also called for reform and internationalization of the Roman Curia (which Pope Paul has promised to undertake at once), and empowered national episcopal conferences, such as the National Catholic Welfare Conference in the United States, to deal with many questions hitherto referred to Rome.

These actions, when fully implemented, will mean greater local autonomy, and will give non-Italian Catholics a bigger voice in the church's affairs than they've had in the past.

A radical revision of Catholic

Bomb Is New Robbery Twist

ROSEVILLE (UPI) — There was a new twist to a robbery in a Detroit suburb Sunday.

Lew Baron, manager of the Royal Market in suburban Roseville told police he received a call at his store about 5:45. The caller told him a bomb had been planted in his store.

Baron received instructions to take the bomb, which had been placed in a box, and all the money in his safe and place both on the bed of a semi-trailer truck parked 400 feet east of the market.

The manager complied and called the Macomb County sheriff's department. Deputies rushed to the scene and found the box on the truck bed, but no money.

They called the fire department which hosed down the box. Deputies opened the box and found a home made bomb constructed with gunpowder. It was real.

Baron said he put between $500 and $1,000 on the truck bed.

relations with other religions was decreed in three different documents of major importance. The first commits Catholics to establish warm new ties of cooperation, friendship and dialogue with their "separated brethren" of other Christian churches.

The second recognizes the spiritual values inherent in non-Christian religions, and particularly the "common patrimony" which Christians share with Jews. It also repudiates any notion that Jews are under a divine curse because of the crucifixion of Jesus, and declares all forms of anti-Semitism.

Religious Liberty

The third document, in many ways the most revolutionary action taken by the Council, puts the Catholic Church on record for the first time as believing that religious liberty is a God-ordained human right which is not to be contravened by any government or institution.

Protestant observers, who attended all sessions of the Council, were delighted with the religious liberty declaration.

They also were pleased with a Council document which accords to the Bible as much reference and authority as Luther ever did. This document urges Bible reading by Catholics; encourages Catholic scholars to employ modern methods of biblical study, including form criticism; and affirms the reliability of the biblical record in terms which leave the door open for the acknowledgment that human authors may have erred in some non-essential details, and that they sometimes used literary forms such as poetry, parable and myth, which were never meant to be read as literal history.

The long range effects of the new Catholic emphasis on the Bible are impossible to calculate. But one prominent Catholic theologian, Fr. Gregory Baum, predicts that the ultimate influence of this document will be greater than that of any other action taken by the council.

Delta County Electors Reject Airport Millage

Delta County voters by a 196 vote margin Monday rejected a proposal by the Board of Supervisors to levy a two mill tax for one year to help finance improvements at the Escanaba Airport.

Voter turnout throughout the county was termed "very light" with only 4,262 of about 15,608 registered voters casting ballots—about 27.3 per cent.

The proposal was approved by better than a 2-1 margin in the City of Escanaba, but defeated nearly 4-1 in Gladstone and by better than 2-1 in Township precincts.

If approved, the two mill tax for one year would have raised about $153,000. Coupled with federal and state aid, the revenue would have financed about $521,000 in improvements to the airport, including a new terminal building and a runway extension to open the gates for jet traffic planned by North Central Airlines.

Industry Backed
Business and industrial leaders of the county had solidly backed the proposal. The Board of Supervisors had asked a county-wide vote after a special Airport Study Committee made recommendations to the Board that the county take over operation of the airport and make major improvements.

Neither John Anthony, chairman of the Airport Study Committee, or Charles Sedquist, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, was available for comment on the election this morning.

Voting was lightest in Escanaba, where voters favored the proposal 1,390 to 583. Only 1,975 of 7,750 electors—25.3 per cent—turned out.

About 28.3 per cent of Gladstone's 2,400 electors turned out to vote against the proposal 540-140.

Many congressmen are expected to disagree. Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee said that in view of the escalating nature of the conflict, "now was not the psychological time to close any of our defense installations."

Unquestionably this theme will be picked up by other lawmakers, especially those representing districts where the bases are located.

Under a law enacted this year, no military installation employing more than 250 persons can be shut down or trimmed until Congress has 30 days to review the plans. The law, considerably modified after a presidential veto of an earlier version, reflected congressional indignation over widespread base closes.

In effect it did nothing more than let Congress blow off some steam. The 30 days— which in this case begins Jan. 10, 1966, when Congress returns to work—does not offer enough time for the proposals to be adequately studied.

The largest of the slim turnout came in the Townships, where 29.3 per cent of the eligible voters cast 1,103 "No" votes and 503 "Yes" ballots.

Heavy Opposition
Heaviest opposition, percentage-wise, came from Baldwin Township where the proposal was defeated 75-9 and from Fairbanks Township where it lost 32-4. Both Howard Logan, Baldwin Township supervisor, and James Collins, Fairbanks supervisor, had opposed the issue.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress will probably fume, fuss and threaten for the next several weeks—but when all is said and done the Pentagon will go ahead with its latest round of military base reductions and shutdowns.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara said Monday that 126 facilities in 39 states and the District of Columbia and 23 overseas would be closed or reduced over the next four years, starting in 1966. This would eliminate $3,000 jobs and save $410 million a year. He said the bases were not needed and could be curtailed without hampering the war effort in Viet Nam. He plans to announce which bases get the ax Wednesday.

Bishop Still In Prison Cell

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In a prison cell in Red China, American Bishop James Edward Walsh today celebrated an important anniversary. He probably is able to do so only in his thoughts. His family in the United States can send him only their prayers.

Actually, that is all the patient and courageous Maryknoll bishop, now 74 years old and a prisoner of the Chinese Communists since 1958, asked them to send.

His brother, Judge William C. Walsh of Cumberland, Md., a former Maryland attorney general, says Bishop Walsh nearly forgot that Dec. 7 is the 30th anniversary of his ordination into the Roman Catholic priesthood.

Recent Letter

Judge Walsh mentioned it in a recent letter and got back this reply: "Thanks for your congratulations on my own jubilee. To tell the truth I had not thought about it until you mentioned it. Well, I hope there will be prayers from the family on that occasion, and that will be a good celebration for me, to be sure—in fact, the kind I like best."

The Chinese Communists permit Bishop Walsh to exchange one letter a month with his family, alternating between Judge Walsh and a sister, Mary, also of Cumberland. His letters avoid politics and deal only with family matters. They never complain. They never show a lack of good humor. The most recent, dated Nov. 15, contained a bit of light verse written for a 6-year-old grandniece.

Born in Cumberland

Bishop Walsh was born in Cumberland April 30, 1891. He first went to China in 1918. He returned in 1936 to be superior general of the Catholic Foreign Missions Society of America, the Maryknoll headquarters at Ossining, N.Y.

In 1948 the year before the Communists took over, he returned to China as head of the Catholic Central Bureau in Shanghai, a coordinating post for missionary work.

On or about Oct. 19, 1958, he disappeared from his residence. For the next 17 months diplomatic inquiries brought the answer from Chinese authorities that the bishop was "in good health," but under investigation for "a crime against the state."

The first clue to his fate came on March 17, 1960, when Peking Radio accused him of espionage and complicity in an alleged plot against the regime by Chinese Catholic clergymen. On March 18, the radio announced he had been sentenced to 20 years in prison.

He is one of four Americans still held in Red China. The U.S. State Department has frequently sought their release at meetings between American and Chinese officials in Warsaw. A standard answer has been that Peking will not discuss such "minor" matters until major issues such as Red China's demand for return of Formosa are settled.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—France remained the biggest buyer of U.S. gold during the third quarter of 1965, purchasing $117.2 million worth during the July-September period. The Treasury reported Monday that gold sales to France and other countries were partly offset by a $132.3 million purchase from Britain, probably reflecting in part sales of Soviet gold in London to pay for Russian wheat purchases.

There was consideration by the Council of a policy on assessing for sanitary sewer improvements, and the city manager is to make a further report at the next meeting.

The Council adopted a resolution commending the Police Department for its "quick work" in apprehending the alleged robbers of the First National Bank, and described their action as "compatible with that in any community."

Councilman H. George Nelson read a statement praising the city firemen for repairing donated toys, and asked that gifts of toys be brought to either fire station.

Herman Newmann, 923 1st Ave. N., appeared before the Council to ask assistance in solving an off-street parking problem, and was assured of the city's cooperation.

More Than $1 Million

City Attorney John G. Erickson has previously supplied the Council with opinions on both questions. Presumably he will handle the requests for opinions and make the request to the office of the attorney general.

Mayor Rusch said the opinions will be sought because the questions continue to be raised by some people in the community. The opinions will become part of the Council's plans to establish procedures for long-term investments of city funds, and in particular the $1,000,000 sale of the steam plant after it is phased out in 1967 will swell the city's funds for investment also.

In other business the Council accepted the suggestion of City Manager George Harvey to wait until there could be further discussions with the Chicago & North Western Railway before acting on a plan to acquire the land on which the Northern Motor Rebuilders building is located.

Mayor Rusch said the Council "would like to sit down" with the North Western people for a discussion of the railway's plans for disposing of its

Busboy Admits Nov. 1 Slaying Of Babysitter

DETROIT (UPI)—Police today were holding a 21-year-old busboy wanted in the slaying of an 18-year-old babysitter last month after he waived extradition proceedings in Toronto Monday.

The suspect, Najeb Kadri, police said, has admitted killing Julie Pasanen at the home of his estranged wife, Eileen, 23, last Nov. 1.

Miss Pasanen was caring for Mrs. Kadri's 18-month-old son, Michael, who was found unharmed near the slain girl's nude body.

Kadri, who, authorities said, refused to make a written confession, was scheduled to be arraigned today before Recorder's Court Judge Paul E. Krause.

Kadri was arrested Friday night by Canadian authorities in Calgary, Alberta.

Passenger Hurt When Cars Collide

William Roberts, 60, of Rapid River Rte. 1, suffered a broken collar bone and minor injuries in a traffic accident Monday night but is reported in "good" condition at St. Francis Hospital today.

The accident occurred at 5:22 p.m. at 14th St. and 1st Ave. S. Roberts was a passenger in a car driven by Barbara Mae Heath of Skandia. It is reported by Escanaba police.

The other car was driven by Mrs. Henrietta Mary St. Martin of 509 S. 9th St. who received a traffic court summons for disobeying a stop sign.

Question Two Escanaba Men

Two Escanaba men are being detained in the Delta County jail today for questioning in connection with the armed robbery of a service station in Marinette on Thursday last week.

No charge has been placed against the men this morning and their names were withheld.

The Marinette Consolidated Gas Co. station was held up and $231 was taken. James Homa, 19, the station attendant, told authorities that two men drove up in a car and the man on the passenger side got out and entered the station, pointing a pistol.

"This is a stickup. I want your money," Homa said. The robber told him.

Homa said he was told to empty his pockets and the man tipped the cash drawer.

Connecting Escanaba with the robbery was the theft of a car owned by Emory Pellant at 302 Lake Shore Drive. The car was found abandoned in Marinette.

John M. Keane Enters Army

John M. Keane, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Keane of 306 1/2 N. 15th St., Escanaba, has enlisted in the U.S. Army for three years. It is reported by M-Sgt. Kenneth L. Swette, local Army recruiter.

John attended Escanaba High School and will enter basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., after which he will be trained as a supply specialist.

Santa and the Zabbazara Bus

BY LUCRECE BEALE

SYNOPSIS: Mr. D got tired of driving a bus up and down Main Street. He wondered what the world was like beyond the town. Finally he took down the bus sign saying "Main Street," put up one saying "Zabbazara" and started off.

CHAPTER TWO THE CROCODILE AND THE DONKEY

HOW THE PEOPLE stared when they saw Mr. D and the Zabbazara bus drive down the Main Street of the town!

"Hey!" they called. "Wait! Stop!"

They were in the very midst of their Christmas shopping. Their feet hurt and their tempers were short. They couldn't believe the bus wasn't going to take them up and down Main Street the way it always had.

The bus came to a corner where the traffic was so heavy Mr. D had to stop. The shoppers pushed open the door and cried out, "Let us on. We want to go down Main Street, you dunc!"

Mr. D pointed to the big sign he'd put on the side of the bus. He said, "This isn't the Main Street bus anymore. This is the Zabbazara bus. You want to go to Zabbazara?"

"ZABBABAZA! Where's that?" "I don't know," said Mr. D. "But that's where this bus is going. If you want to go, hop on."

Well, who wanted to go to a place with a name like that which no one had ever heard of? The people fell back grumbling and glaring at Mr. D as if he had taken leave of his senses.

Mr. D didn't care. He put his foot down hard on the gas and scouted away. When he came to the end of Main Street he didn't turn the bus around the way he always had. He kept right on going straight out of town.

The bus lurched and shook. Mr. D bounced up and down so hard his glasses slipped off his nose. Without his glasses he saw two roads instead of one. He decided to take the left road. It was rough but he liked it because it was taking him further and further from Main Street.

Presently he came to a crossroads where an ugly old woman with a shawl over her head flagged him down.

"This isn't a real bus," Mr. D called out the door. "It's the Zabbazara bus."

"That's real enough for me," said the old woman and she climbed on board.

Mr. D slipped his glasses back up his nose and he saw that it wasn't an old woman at all, but a crocodile.

"Everyone is afraid of me. I am so ugly," said the crocodile as she settled herself in a seat. "I've been standing on that corner more years than I can say, and no bus has ever stopped for me before."

Mr. D had never had a crocodile on his bus before, but he thought, "Perhaps this is the way things are away from Main Street and this is the life I wanted to see."

So he let the crocodile stay on the bus. He shut the door and started away. He hadn't gone far when he was stopped by a foolish-looking animal standing in the middle of the road.

"Who are you?" asked Mr. D. "I don't know," said the animal unhappily. "I never went to school and I don't know anything."

"It's a donkey," said the crocodile from the back seat. "Donkeys don't have much sense."

"You better get out of the road," said Mr. D kindly. "You'll be hit standing there."

"It's just as well. What do I

"This isn't the Main Street bus any more," said Mr. D.

have to live for? Everyone despises me."

"Take him on the bus," said the crocodile. "He wants to go to Zabbazara."

"But, there is no Zabbazara!" protested Mr. D. "I made it up!"

"So what? It doesn't matter. Let the donkey on."

Mr. D did as he was told. The donkey climbed on and the Zabbazara bus continued on its way.

Labor Training Program Set

WASHINGTON, UPI — Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz Monday approved two plans which will provide training for 51,469 persons in Michigan.

Five training programs will be provided to develop new work skills for 1,149 unemployed or underemployed persons. A total of $1,585,420 in federal funds has been allocated for the projects, in conjunction with the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

Two of the projects including training machine tool operators and welders in Marquette County, one for a variety of occupations at the Detroit Skill Center, another for case aides at Oakland Community College, and the fifth for nurse aide training at Hackley Hospital in Muskegon County.

Under the other training program approved by Wirtz, 320 Michigan gas station salesmen will be trained in an on-the-job training program. The Michigan Petroleum Association in Detroit will develop the project in Michigan.

The U. S. federal government owns 769,900,000 acres of land in the 50 states, more than one of every three acres.

Kill Forecasts On Deer Hurt

Before the 1965 deer season opened Michigan Conservation Department officials in Lansing said they expected about 40,700 deer would be shot in the Upper Peninsula — about 3,000 more than were taken last year — but now that the season is over, most observers agree that the kill was below the 1964 harvest.

How come? Department biologists from the Upper Peninsula met in Marquette last week and tried to answer that question, among others.

Ralph Bailey, Marquette, regional game biologist, summarized the reports from biologists in each of the Peninsula's four districts.

"The most important thing we can see here is that in the Lake Superior watershed, where we had heavy deer losses from starvation last spring, the deer were down," Bailey said. "We predicted this, and it wasn't any surprise to us."

"Because of the severe winter in that area, we didn't get the fawn production because of the poor condition of the does at the end of the winter."

Another factor that helped keep the total kill down this year Bailey said, was weather.

"Generally, hunting conditions were good throughout most of the season except for the opening weekend, when the bulk of the kill occurs, and the last weekend, which didn't have much effect on the season."

In the eastern end of the Upper Peninsula, where some areas experienced an increase of 100 per cent in the number of hunters over last year, the success ratio was far below 1964.

The remainder of the U. P. also had an increase in hunter numbers over last year, except where there were fewer hunters than in 1964.

The kill also was definitely down in the west end, Bailey said. But the southern part of the U. P. registered a kill that probably was as good as last year, except in western Iron County, District 3 (Delta and Marquette counties and the west half of Alger) also had a fairly good kill, according to Bailey.

"In parts of Schoolcraft County, where we did lots of winter range improvement work, the kill held up better than in some other areas where we weren't able to get in and do the cutting," he said.

Bailey lamented tendency of hunters to compare this season with last season, stating that a better comparison would be between the 1965 season and the preceding five or 10 seasons. The 1965 kill probably will prove to be above the kill in either 1961 or 1962, Bailey said.

"Last year was an exceptionally good deer hunting year, and we can't expect to have one of those banner seasons every year, especially now with our forests growing up and our range getting poorer in more areas than it is getting better in," he added.

Although he didn't say so, Bailey and the other department biologists in the Upper Peninsula probably also lament the Lansing staff's tendency to issue predictions on the size of the kill in advance of the season.

Supervisors To Back UPCAP, Ask Toll Free Span

U.P. Supervisors Association, concluding a two-day meeting here, Saturday with members dedicated to do whatever possible to encourage Marquette County to participate in UPCAP and to have all U. P. counties support the organization to assure its continuance after federal programs expire.

Alex Goldade, chairman of the State Association of Supervisors, is among persons scheduled to attend a meeting in Escanaba today on UPCAP.

Supervisors heard a detailed report on UPCAP from Fred H. Hahne, community action chairman here and from Dr. E. V. Bowden, retiring director. They also heard Congressman Raymond Cleveland (D-Sault Ste. Marie) indicate a strong future for the re-organized UPCAP.

Ask Hunt Curb

Resolutions were adopted asking for discontinuance of endless deer seasons for at least two years; elimination of tolls on the Mackinac Bridge; excluding mineral rights from ad valorem tax exemptions through commercial forest reserve land listing; and for change in the time when the State Tax Commission reports its results to assessors.

Support was indicated for a proposal of Rep. Joseph Mack to tax mineral rights separately from surface rights of land. Another proposal winning favor would permit counties to plow airports with existing road equipment, and asking study on a method to finance the work by road commissions.

For Aerial Bridge

Support was given for direct aerial bridge connections for the two peninsulas of Michigan, without going via Wisconsin airports.

Officials reported at the concluding session on student government programs in their areas and indicated that these should be encouraged.

Menominee was selected for the May meeting of the U. P. group.

During the session by-laws of the U. P. group were amended to permit presidents and vice-presidents to be eligible for election for second one-year term. The by-law amendments also provide for election of the secretary-treasurer, who previously was appointed by the board of directors.

Inland Wins Safety Award

For the fifth consecutive year, and the sixth of the past seven years, Inland Lime and Stone Co., has won the Inland Steel raw materials department safety competition.

Within Inland's five iron mines, two coal mines and the Inland Lime and Stone Co., competition is for an award which covers a period Dec. 1 through Nov. 30 the following year. The operation with the best safety record for the 12-month period wins an award and free turkeys for all employees at that operation.

The local operation has been declared the winner after completing the period through Nov. 30 without an accident. The turkeys will be distributed Dec. 22 at the Youth Center.

"Our outstanding safety record is the envy of all the Inland Steel operations. It is also a source of great pride to us here at Port Inland. The records are fine, but even more important is the fact that they mean less suffering and loss of earnings to our employees," John W. Moffat, vice president and general manager, said in announcing the award.

Canada And U.S. Study Control Of Lake Levels

By ROSE LACHAPELLE

The Army Corps of Engineers has prepared a report on studies to date of lake regulation, in a review which will serve as a contribution to an international study of further regulation of Great Lakes levels.

The international study was authorized by the Canadian and American governments Oct. 7. No conclusions nor recommendations for action are in the report, pending completion of the coordinated international study.

Several preliminary regulation plans were developed for each of the Great Lakes, although only Lake Superior (since 1922) and Lake Ontario (since 1960) are regulated. An integrated regulation plan for all of the Great Lakes also has been developed prior to the time of the Lake Ontario study used in connection with the design of the St. Lawrence Seaway and Power projects.

The plan for Lake Superior was developed to determine possibility of providing reduction in extremes of stages on Lakes Michigan-Huron within requirements of regulation of levels and outflows of Lake Superior, without change in regulatory works in the St. Mary's River. It would lower the extreme highs 0.4 foot and the low, the same amount.

The two tentative plans developed for Lakes Michigan-Huron, would lower the high stages 1.3 feet, and 0.45 foot, and raise the low stage 1.1

feet. Regulatory works would be required in the St. Clair and Detroit River channels to control outflows from Lake Huron. This would consist of gated structures to control flow and channel enlargements to provide increase in discharge capacity.

Total estimated cost of the plan to drop the high 0.45 foot would be $426,820,000, with annual costs of $18,483,000 for interest, amortization, operation and maintenance, based on a 50-year project life. To lower the high 1.3 feet would cost $905,000,000 with annual cost of $38 million.

The tentative plan for Lake Erie would lower the high stage 1.0 foot. The extreme low would be raised 0.7 foot.

Considering U.S. interests only, the study indicates that average annual benefits from regulation of Lakes Michigan-Huron would be $2,350,000 (using the plan to lower the high stage 0.45 feet) and for Lake Erie, $9,275,000.

Since Canadian benefits have not been considered and will not be developed until completion of the international study, no conclusions were made on economic feasibility. The partial evaluation indicates advisability of more detailed, coordinated study by the two countries.

Public Safety officers ticketed Norman R. Saffer, 18, of Schoolcraft Ave., for driving too fast for conditions after an accident Monday at 11:45 a.m. at the Deer-Mackinac intersection. Last season Coach Verdie Cox's Michigan Tech cagers played 16 games before they registered their first victory. . . This season they accomplished the same feat in their initial start by defeating Superior, 83-79. . . A pair of free throws by sophomore center Ken Seibert of Escanaba with 30 seconds remaining in the game put the Houghton quint out of reach.

The remainder of Marquette's home game schedule is not yet available because of the European tours being conducted this season by the Green Bay and Rochester teams.

Trout Creek Looks Tough

MARQUETTE — Two games are far from making a successful season, but Trout Creek's Anglers gave plenty of evidence the past week that they've got one of the Upper Peninsula's top small-school basketball teams.

The late-starting Anglers from Ontonagon County, a perennial contender for Class D laurels, thus join such outfits as Hermansville, DeTour, Channing, Champion, Bergland, Mass, Pickford and Powers as the "teams to beat" in this division.

Following an 83-28 opening triumph over Mervin, Wis., Trout Creek ran up a 62-33 edge over Negaunee St. Paul to prove it is capable of good defensive work as well as scoring points. Bob Gale, 6-4½ senior who's the key to success of this veteran team, laced 26 points against Mercer and 29 against St. Paul.

Actually, St. Paul's play against Trout Creek was one of its "least satisfactory" performances in many years. The Emeralds, who now have lost two games in a row for the first time since February of 1963, managed only 11 points in the first half.

Trout Creek's victory, incidentally, was the first the Anglers have scored over the Negaunee Catholics since 1963. St. Paul, which had won five straight over Coach Bruce Warren's club, defeated Trout Creek, 47-44, for the regional championship last March.

Less than one-fourth of the Upper Peninsula's high school basketball teams are still undefeated, and at least another four will drop their first game this week.

The week's schedule features such small-school highlights as engagements between Trout Creek (2-0) and Mass (3-0) in the Porcupine Mountain Conference; an exhibition between Champion and Hermansville (both 3-0); a Big Seven Conference test between Channing and Powers (also both 3-0), and an Eastern U. P. League match between DeTour (3-0) and Pickford (4-0).

Some of those quintets are the top-scoring outfits in the Peninsula. Hermansville, for instance, has racked up 263 points in three games, while Channing has done even better with 293 in the same number of outings. Mass, which concentrates on defense, has held three opponents to a total of 134 points.

Holy Name Seeking First Cage Victory In Two Home Games

The Holy Name Crusaders riding a four game losing streak, will return to basketball action in a home stand tonight against the Gladstone Braves.

Holy Name, playing without a single letter winner on its squad this season, has lost to Escanaba, Marquette Baraga, Stephenson and Ishpeming to date.

Gladstone of the Great Lakes Conference has a 1-2 record, defeating Negaunee in its opener before bowing to Stephenson and Manistique.

Both teams will be back in action again Friday with Holy Name hosting Manistique and Gladstone entertaining the Munising Mustangs.

Tech Defends Hockey Crown

DETROIT (UPI) — Four top college hockey teams are scheduled to battle in the first annual Great Lakes Invitational Hockey Tournament at Detroit's Olympia Stadium, Dec. 21 and 22.

Michigan Tech, last year's NCAA champion, and still undefeated after five games this year, leads the tournament entries.

The University of Toronto, which was the top team in the Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association, ranks as one of Canada's top teams and still is undefeated after three contests.

Boston University and Colorado College round out the tournament. Boston lost its first game but since has won three straight, including two on shutouts.

Colorado College, rated as the "darkhorse" of the tournament, has lost only once in four games this year. The Tigers currently rate as the No. 2 team, behind Michigan Tech, in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association.

The tournament opens with Colorado meeting Toronto and Michigan Tech going against Boston Dec. 21. The losers will play in the consolation game, Dec. 22 at 7 p.m. and the winners will battle for the title at 9 p.m.

Two District Cage Tournaments Scheduled Here

Two Escanaba sites were among 14 selected at Marquette yesterday for staging of Upper Peninsula high school district basketball tournaments Feb. 28 through March 5.

The U.P. Athletic Committee, governing body of prep athletics in the region, scheduled a Class C tourney at the Escanaba Area Public School and a Class B tournament at Holy Name.

Competing in Class C will be Marquette Baraga, Norway and Stephenson. In the Class B tourney will be Gladstone, Menominee, Holy Name and Munising.

Other area schools hosting tournaments will be Rock, Powers and Manistique, all in Class D. District champions at Manistique and Rock will advance to a regional tournament at St. Ignace while all other district winners will take part in regional competition at the fieldhouse at Northern Michigan in Marquette.

Escanaba High School will compete in the Class A district tournament at Northern, along with Marquette and Sault Ste. Marie.

Dartball Teams Begin Tourney On Thursday

The first half tournament of the Escanaba Tavern Dartball Association will begin Thursday, Dec. 9, with four first round games. The tourney will close with a championship game at Lombardi's Monday, Dec. 20, and a consolation game the following night at A's.

First round games Thursday, starting at 8 p.m., will match A's against Eddy's at Colonial, Bay de Noc against Lombardi's at Palm, Metropolitan against White Birch at White Birch and Colonial against West Side at West Side. Drawing byes in the first round were Spar's, Little Mike's, Palm and Ward's.

Maroons Pacing Newest League; Soo Tops GLC

The Menominee Maroons are leading the Upper Peninsula's newest basketball conference, the Great Northern loop, with a 3-0 record but the Stephenson Eagles are close on their heels with a 2-0 mark.

The Maroons have run up victories over Escanaba, Kingsford and Iron Mountain to date and will face Stephenson in a showdown battle Tuesday, Dec. 14, at the Eagle gym. Stephenson owns triumphs over Iron Mountain and Holy Name.

In the Great Lakes Conference race, Sault Ste. Marie has taken the early lead with a 2-0 record, the only unbeaten quint in the league.

Channing and Hermansville, co-champs last season, are tied for first place in the Big Seven while Trenary has a slim edge over Eben in the Central.

Stan Albeck Sets TV Talk

MARQUETTE — Interviews with Northern Michigan University basketball coach Stan Albeck and a pair of touring international debaters will be featured on this week's "Northern Dimensions" program at 10 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 8 on NMU's educational television station, WNMU-TV.

Albeck, now in his ninth year at Northern, will discuss the Wildcats' first two games and the "Cats encounter with Wyoming Thursday in Laramie. Northern, in its first game, downed Calvin, 118-87, and proved to be almost too much for nationally-ranked Bradley in dropping a 90-78 contest. A film of highlights of last season also will be shown.

Northern Quint Tackles Rugged Three-Game Set

MARQUETTE — Northern Michigan University, after gaining a split in a two-game road trip to open the season, will play three games in five days this weekend to wrap up the Wildcats' pre-holiday schedule.

Stan Albeck's quint will tangle with its second major college opponent in a row Thursday night, meeting the University of Wyoming in Laramie. The Wildcats make their home debut Saturday afternoon against Central Michigan University. Monday night, in a final outing before the holidays, Northern faces St. Norbert College at the Brown County Memorial Arena in Green Bay.

Juday Figures Pros Made Mistake Skipping Him In Recent Collegiate Draft

NEW YORK (UPI) — Steve Juday, clutch star of Michigan State's national college football championship team, thinks the pros made a mistake when they passed over him in the draft and hopes to prove it against UCLA in the Rose Bowl.

"I think my size was a big factor," the six-foot, 186-pound Juday said Monday. "But I'm still hoping for a pro offer and maybe I'll hear from some team after the Rose Bowl game."

Juday pointed out that he is about the same size as Gary Wood of the New York Giants, Fran Tarkenton of the Minnesota Vikings, Johnny Unitas of the Baltimore Colts and George Mira of the San Francisco 49ers.

And his contention that the pros may overemphasize this received support from both Ohio State fullback Willard Sander and Football Hall of Famer Jim (Froggy) Williams.

"Juday is a great clutch player and you better believe it," said the 6-2, 250-pound Sander. "I think Juday could make it in the pros especially if he went on a weight-program to add 10 or 15 pounds."

"The pros make mistakes, too," said Williams, a former Rice star who is one of the eight newly-elected members of the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame. "Sometimes the pro coaches don't even know they have a star quarterback when one is on their team. Look at Unitas. The pros passed over him. And Bobby Layne got kicked around among several teams before the pros realized how great he was."

"I'd be willing to go on a weight-lifting program," said Juday, who is in New York to accept a scholar-athlete award at the eighth annual Hall of Fame dinner tonight. "Yes, I was very disappointed when I wasn't drafted. I hope some team gives me a chance. But it won't be the end of the world if I don't get it. I'm not going to beg."

"However," Juday added, "I don't think I've reached my full growth. My dad and two brothers are all between 205 and 225 pounds and I think I'll be that big in a few years."

Looking forward to the Rose Bowl meeting with UCLA, Juday said Michigan State "is confident but not overconfident."

"We beat UCLA 13-3 in our first game of the season," he said. "We figure they're stronger now and we think we are, too, so we're really not sure what to expect."

Juday and Sander emphasized the strength of Michigan State's defense.

Throw, UCLA, Throw

"We held three teams to minus yardage rushing and lowa to plus one," he pointed out. "Our defensive team is in the game for three plays and then we have the ball again. They wear you out. That's why we outscored our opponents 111-7 in the fourth period."

Bruins Take First Place In Cage Poll

NEW YORK (UPI)—The U.C.L.A. Bruins grabbed a healthy lead Tuesday in the first weekly major college basketball ratings by the United Press International board of coaches.

U.C.L.A., the National Collegiate Athletic Association champions for the last two years, drew 29 first-place votes from the 35 coaches on the UPI rating board and a 105-point margin over second-place Michigan.

Michigan and third-ranked St. Joseph's (Pa.) were the only other teams awarded first-place ballots. The Wolverines received five votes and St. Joseph's picked up the other one.

There were only minor position changes among the top 10 from the pre-season ratings as all 10 teams went through the first week of the season unbeaten. The ratings are based on games played through Saturday, Dec. 4.

St. Joseph's, fourth-ranked Duck, seventh-place Kansas and ninth-ranked Brigham Young each advanced one position. Minnesota dropped from third to fifth place, Vanderbilt held the No. 6 spot, Providence dropped a notch to eighth and Bradley also slipped one place to 10th.

Kentucky Soars

San Francisco remained No. 11, Iowa jumped from 20th to 12th after stopping small college King Evansville's 35-game victory streak and vastly improved Kentucky soared from nowhere into 13th. Louisville jumped three places to 14th, North Carolina State ranked 15th and New Mexico and Ohio State tied for 16th. Tennessee and Boston College tied for 18th and Dayton completed the top 20 in 20th place.

Heading the list of games between top 20 teams this week are three games in the South, two of them clashes between U.C.L.A. and Duke on Friday and Saturday nights. The other contest pits Vanderbilt at Tennessee Tuesday night.

Michigan takes to the road against Wichita Wednesday and San Francisco Friday while Kansas meets New Mexico State Tuesday night, Maryland Friday and St. John's (N.Y.) Saturday.

U.C.L.A. Romps

U.C.L.A. romped to impressive triumphs over two Big 10 teams, Ohio State, 92-66, and Illinois, 97-79, while Michigan shaded Tennessee 71-63 and trampled Bowling Green 108-70. St. Joseph's and Duke also scored a pair of one-sided victories last week.

Five coaches from each of the seven geographical areas of the nation make up the UPI rating board. Each week the coaches vote on the top 10 teams with points distributed on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis for votes from first to 10th place.

The ratings with first-place votes and won-lost records through games of Saturday, Dec. 4, in parentheses:

Michigan Wins Third Straight By Big Margin

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — The Michigan Wolverines continued to roll through their non-conference schedule Monday night as they overwhelmed their third straight foe.

The victim was a smaller, and greatly out-played Ball State team, which absorbed the 107-70 lashing from the Wolverines.

The Michigan attack once again featured balanced scoring. Guards John Clawson and John Thompson, who teamed up to start the Wolverines rolling, finished with 15 points apiece, while Cazzie Russell came in with 22, after a torrid eight-for-ten field goal performance in the first half.

The superior Michigan height which was so telling in the final score was even more evident in the rebounding. The Wolverines seldom allowed Ball State shooters more than one field goal attempt before whisking the ball downcourt.

Oliver Darden, the 6-foot, 7-inch forward, grabbed 18 rebounds and center Craig Dill took 14 more to account for nearly half of Michigan's total of 70. Ball State could manage only 39 rebounds.

Ball State was in the game only during the first three minutes of action. They led 7-6 as Michigan worked to mesh the gears on its scoring machine. Clawson hit on a jump shot at 16:55, putting Michigan ahead
